

Santanu, 28, has experienced stigma as a result of living with epilepsy in his home country of India.

Santanu Chowdhury

India

“

Stigma is one of the common features of epilepsy in both developed and developing countries. It can cause serious harm to the physical, mental, and social well-being of a person with epilepsy.

”

“

Together we can defeat this disease.

”

Discover more stories like Santanu's and learn about epilepsy stigma at <https://internationalepilepsyday.org>

